 Fait, (a mas. Subst.) fact, act, or deed; feat, or exploit; concern, case, business; interest.
 C'est une Question de fait, & non pas de Droit, 'tis a Matter of Fact, and not of Right. Un Homme pris sur le fait, a Man taken upon the fact, in the very act, or in the deed doing.
 Si par l'Esprit vous mortifiez les faits du Corps, vous vivrez, (Rom. 8. 13.) if ye through the Spirit mortify the deeds of the Body, ye shall live.
 Faits d'Armes glorieux, famous feats of War. Il nous a etourdi du recit de ses beaux faits, he has broke our head with the narrative of his fine exploits.
 Pour ce qui touche notre fait, as for our own concern. Il y a quèque chose en mon fait qui ne va pas bien, something there is in my case which is not right.
 Ceux qui sont clairvoyans dans les Affaires d'autrui sont bien souvent aveugles dans leur fait propre, those that are clear-sighted in other People's Affaires are often blind in their own case. Il entend bien son fait, he understands his Interest very well.
 Or thus. Etre feur de son fait, to be cock-sure. Mettre en fait, to put the case, to suppose. Venir au fait, to come to the matter.
 En fait de guerre, in point of War.
 La Poësie est mon vrai fait, Poesy is my element. Les Armes ne sont pas son fait, he is no Soldier.
 Cet homme sera bien votre fait, that Man will serve your turn very well.
 J'ai besoin de mon fait, I want my own.
 Il nia les faits qu'on lui imputoit, he deny'd the Charge.
 De fait, & de fait, indeed, and indeed.
 Tout à fait, altogether, wholly.
 Faitage, (m.) le Toit & la Couverture, the Roof-timber; the ridge-piece of Timber; the ridge-lead that covers it.
 Faite, (m.) Top, the Top of a House.
 Le Faite du Logis est pret à tomber, the Top of the House is ready to fall.
 Or thus. Dechoir du faite de la Gloire, to fall from the pinnacle of Glory.
 Faistiere, (f.) a ridge-tile.

The same is also used Adjectively, as when we say Tuile faïtière.

Faix, (m.) cd. Poids, ou Pesanteur, weight, burden.

As, le faix de la Maison, the weight of the House. Etre accablé sous le faix, to fall under his burden.

Porter tout seul le faix du Gouvernement, to bear alone the heavy burden of Government.

Or thus. As, le faix, or (rather) le fois du Corps, the waste, or middle of the Body.

Falaïse, (f.) Côtaux le long des Côtes de la Mer, a steep Shore, or Hills by the Sea-side.

Falaïser. As, la Mer falaïse, cd. vient briser sur la Côte, the Sea breaks upon the Coast.

† Fallace, (f.) cd. tromperie, fallacy, guile, deceit, deceitfulness. As, Ps. 34. 13. Ps. 161. 7. Matt. 13. 22. Mark 4. 19.

Faloir. This is a Verb Impersonal, only used in the third person Singular. As, il faut, il falait, il faut, il a falu, il faudra, il faudroit, qu'il faille, qu'il falût.

The same is often followed by the Particle que, and after that a Verb in the Conjunctive Mood.

As, il faut que je le fasse, I must do it.

Il faut que tu le fasses, thou must do it. Il faut qu'il le fasse, he must do it. Il faut que nous le fassions, we must do it. Il faut que vous le fassiez, you must do it. Il faut qu'ils le fassent, they must do it.

Sometimes you will find it before an Infinitive Mood; and that either absolutely, or with personal Pronouns.

Absolutely; as il faut faire cela, that must be done. Il faut mourir une fois, we must die once.

With personal Pronouns. As, il me faut mourir, I must die. Il te faut marcher, thou must march. Il nous faut reposer, we must rest. Il vous faut boire, you must drink. Il se faut défendre, we must defend our selves.

This Verb is also used before Substantives; and that with, or without the personal Pronouns.

As, il me faut de l'argent, I must have money. Il faut de l'argent, money must be had.

Or thus. Il ne faut que cela pour me rendre heureux, that Thing alone may make me happy.

Again, you will sometimes find this Verb at the end of a Sentence.

As, vous faites ce qu'il faut, you do what's fitting. Vous faites plus qu'il ne faut, you do more than enough, you overdo. Vous lisez plus qu'il ne faut, you read too much.

Or thus. As, il a le temperament qu'il faut pour engendrer, he is of a right temper to get children.

Je l'ai rossé comme il faut, I banged him soundly.

As for the other Tenses, mind these following Phrases.

Il falait y aller, you should have gone thither, it was convenient (or fitting) to go thither.

Il falait être venu plus tôt, you should have come sooner. Ne falait il pas que je le fusse auparavant? should not I have known it before-hand? J'ai cru qu'il me falait répondre, I thought I was to answer.

Il faut y aller, il faut que j'y aille, I was fain to go thither. Il m'a falu tout dire, I was fain (or forced) to tell all.

Il faudra le faire, we (or you) must do it. Il faudroit donc l'en avertir, you should then let him know of it, he should be then acquainted with it.

But sometimes this Verb is used in the signification of the Verb Manquer, to want.

As, il me faut, il te faut, il lui faut, I want, thou wantest, he wants. Il nous faut, il vous faut, il leur faut, we want, you want, they want.

Il me faut un bon Ami, I want a good Friend. Il vous faut bien des Choses, you want great many Things. Il me faudroit beaucoup de Choses, I should want a great many Things.

And in this Sense it is frequently used with s'en betwixt the Person and the Verb, or else before the Verb without any Person.

In the first manner. As, il s'en faut beaucoup, there wants a great deal. Il ne s'en faut presque rien, there wants but very little.

Il ne s'en falait pas beaucoup, there wanted no great matter of it.

Il ne s'en falait pas un liard, there won't be a farthing wanting.

Sans qu'il s'en falût rien, (Deut. 31. 34.) until they were finished.

Without the Person. As, tant s'en faut que cela soit, far from that. Tant s'en faut que je vous aime, I am so far from loving you.

Peu s'en faut que je ne le bate, I have a great mind to beat him.

Peu s'en est falu qu'on ne l'ait tué, he was very near being killed.

Franc Tillac, le Pont le plus proche de l'Eau, eleve sur le fond de Cale, the lowermost Deck.

Franc (a masc. Subst.) a Liver (which is 20. sous French, and 18. pence English.)

The right Use of this Word is some what intricate, and not generally known even amongst the French. Therefore I thought fit to insert it here.

Franc is not to be used with these Numbers, un, deux, trois, cinq. But, for un franc, say vint sous; for deux francs, quarante sous.

sous ; for trois francs, un ecu ; and for cinq francs, cent sous.
With other Numbers you may use the word franc, if there be no Number coming after it. So you may say quatre francs, six francs, mille francs, dix mille francs.
But, if you add a Number to the first, then use Livre, instead of Franc. As, quatre Livres cinq sous, sept Livres dix sous, and the like, in which case franc does not sound well.
 Franche. 'Tis the feminine Gender of Franc, the Adjective.
 La Franche, (Gal. 4. 33, and 31.) the free Woman, the free.
 Franchement, freely, boldly, openly, plainly.

G.

His Letter is a Consonant, used in the masculine Gender. As, un g bien fait, a g well made.
 The same, in some proper Names, is used in- stead of an V Consonant; as in these Words, Gascons from the Latin Vascones, Galles from Wales, and Gap from Vapungum.
 Before the Vowels a, o, u, it is pronounced in French as in English; as galant, golfe, aigu.
 But, before e and i, it has a soft Pronuncia- tion, not unlike that of sh in English, but som- ething softer; as geler, giron, gerbe, gibier.
 g, before m, is pronounced in French as in English; as augmenter, to augment.
 gn, following one another, do usually belong to the same Syllable, and make a liquid Sound; as oi- gnon onion, compagnon companion, where the gn in French sounds much like the ni in English.
 In these two Words, Sang and Bourg, being followed by a Word beginning with a Vowel, the g is pronounced hard, and not unlike a k. As, le Sang & la Vie, le Sang humain, le Bourg & la Ville.
 g is mute in these Words prognostic, prog- nostiquer, sangsue, harang, long, oing, poing, seing.
 gue and gui are no otherwise pronounced in French than in these two English Words, Guest and Guide; as vague, guichet.
 As to the New way of Spelling, the g is ban- nished from these Words, benin, besoin, coin, dedain, deffein, loin, malin, loim, temoin, which formerly were writ with a g final, though mute; as bening, befoing, &c.
 But it is retained in their Derivatives, where the same is pronounced; as benignité, dedai- gner, eloigner, soigneux, temoigner, &c.
 Lastly, we write without a g these following Words, Madelaine, Renard, vint, doit a fin- ger, conoitre, and their Derivatives. Where- as formerly they writ Magdelaine, Regnard, vintg, doigt, cognoistre, &c.

Mint. Garde de Bois, a Forest-keeper, or Warden of a Forest. Garde-pertuis, People appointed over the dangerous Passages of Rivers for the Convenience of Travellers. Quand une jeune Beauté aime, la Pudeur est une Garde aisément subornée, when a Young Beauty is in love, Modesty is a Keeper easily bribed and corrupted.

Les Gardes du Corps gardent la personne du Roi, & portent des Just au corps bleus avec des Bandoulières & des Mousquetons, the Life-Gard Men guard the Kings Person, and wear blue Coats with Bandoleers and Carabines.

Les Gardes de la Marine. C'est une Compagnie qui est de cent Gentilshommes, tantôt plus tantôt moins, qui sont choisis ordinairement parmi ceux qui ont déjà fait quelque Campagne sur Mer, pour servir auprès de la personne de l'Amiral, quand il commande l'Armée. Mais, en son absence, on les distribue dans chaque Vaisseau, pour y soulager les Officiers dans leur fonction, particulièrement dans le Service des Batteries.

Garde, (f.) heed; guard, or defence; keeping, or custody; a Guard of Soldiers, a Watch; a Nurse, or dry Nurse; the guard of a sword. As, prenez garde, take heed, or beware. Prenez garde qu'on ne vous empoisonne, take heed you be not poisoned. Prenez garde aux Chiens, beware of Dogs.

Se tenir sur ses gardes, to stand upon his Guard. Se mettre en garde, quand on va faire des Armes, to put himself into a posture of defence. Se tenir (être) bien en garde, to be well upon his Guard.

Se donner garde, to take heed, to beware. Donnez vous garde du Levain des Pharisiens (Luke 12.1.) beware ye of the Leaven of the Pharisees.

Donner une Chose en garde à quécun, to leave a Thing to ones custody, to give it him to keep. Il m'a donné de l'argent en garde, he hath given me a parcel of money to keep. La garde de deux Filles est un peu trop pesante, the Keeping of two Maids is too great a Burden.

G Y

Gymnosophiste, (m.) Philophe Indien, an Indian Philosopher.

H.

† His Letter being the eighth of the Alphabet, is pronounced aust in French, and is used in the feminine Gender. As, une h bien faite, an h well made.

The same is aspirated, or pronounced hard, in the beginning of such Words as are purely French; as la harangue, the harang, or speech.

But it is generally mute, and counted as nothing, where it begins a Word originally derived from the Greek or Latin; as heresie, humeur.

And in this case those Words which are liable to an Elision lose their final Vowel, and turn the same into an Apostroph, before a Word beginning with h mute, as they do before such as begin with a Vowel.

As for example, l' honneur for le honneur, l' heresie for la heresie, il n'a rien que d'humain for que de humain, il m' honore for il me honore, il n' habite for il ne habite, cela ne fait qu' hebeter l' esprit for que hebeter l'esprit.

Now, that you may know where the h must be aspirated, and where it is to be mute, I have taken care to mark the first with a prefixed Star, thus *.

As to the New Way of Spelling, h is left out in these Words especially, where it is not heard; viz. Archange, authentique, auteur, Caractere, cholere, chonique, Echole, Jehan, Luth, mechanique, melancholie, Nicholas, orchanette, orthographe, sepulchre, Thresor, and Throne, with their Derivatives. And now they are thus written, without h, Arcange, autentique, Auteur, &c.

'Tis also usual now a days to write Jerome and Jerusalem, instead of Hierome and Hierusalem.

Description de l'Homme.

¶ L'Homme, à le prendre par son foible, est un pauvre Animal, & peut être un des plus malheureux qui soit dans la Nature. Pauvre Homme, tu te vantes d'un Empire Universel, & cependant tout le Tiffu de ta Vie n'est qu'une Suite de Misere & d'Esclavage. Bien loin d'être Maître du Monde, tu es un malheureux Esclave de tes Passions, Esclave des Loix sous l'Empire desquelles tu vis, & Esclave encore de mille Formalitez. As tu du Genie? il ne sert qu'à te tourmenter. Et tes Passions, qui devroient ce semble travailler à ton Bonheur, sont les principaux Organes de ta Misere. Ce sont des Viperes que tu nourris dans ton Sein, & des Bourreaux qui ne cessent de te tourmenter. A peine sens tu le Plaisir, au lieu que la moindre Douleur te perce jusqu'au vif. Et, comme si ton propre Mal ne te suffisoit pas, ta Nature te porte à prendre part aux Malheurs d'autrui. Ce n'est pas assez. Si l'arrive d'avoir quelque petit Relâche dans ta Misere, quelque Tranquillité parmi tant de Bouraques, tu as le Secret de troubler ton Repos par des Apprehensions imaginaires, & par des Craintes chimeriques. Si tu veux admirer ta Forme, souvien toi qu'au dehors tu ressembles à un Singe, & au dedans à un Pourceau. Après cela, juge si ton Orgueil n'est pas sot & insupportable.

La Justice vuidera notre Different, the Court shall decide our Controversy.

Haute, moyenne, & basse Justice, high, mean, and low Jurisdiction.

La haute Justice in France est a Power to judge and determine all civil and criminal Causes (except high Treasons) happening within the Liberty or Precinct of the Lord from hence called Haut Justicier.

La moyenne Justice gives the Lord thereof a Power to determine most civil Controversies, and to proceed against some kind of Malefactors. But this Jurisdiction is not of the same latitude and force every where.

La basse Justice falls as much short of la moyenne, as this do's of la haute. It takes notice of all personal Actions, but only such as do not exceed the value of 60. s. or that are not subject to a greater Fine than 7. s. 6. d. Tourn.

On fera Justice aujourd'hui, to day will be an Execution-Day. Faire Justice d'un Criminel, to execute a Malefactor.

L'Executeur de la haute Justice, the Hangman, the Executioner.

Or thus. As, Luke 18. 3. Fai moi Justice de ma Partie adverse, avenge me of mine Adversary.

Il n'est pas son Justiciable, he is not under his Jurisdiction.

Justicier,

Justicier, (m.) a Gentleman that bath (as most Gentlemen of means in France have) high, mean, or low Jurisdiction, within a certain Precinct. He that has high Jurisdiction is called haut Justicier; he that has mean Jurisdiction, moyen Justicier; and he that has the low, bas Justicier.

Justifiant; (Terme de Theologie) justifying.

As, la Grace justifiante, the justifying Grace.

Justificatif, (Terme de Droit) justifying.

Etre receu à ses faits justificatifs, to be allowed to make his Defence, or bring what Proofs he can for clearing of himself.

Justification, (f.) Justification, or Defence; Justification, or the receiving of a Sinner into a state of Grace.

J'ai été contraint d'en user de la sorte pour ma Justification, I was fain to do so in my own Defence, or for my Justification.

La Justification & la Sanctification se donnent la main l'une à l'autre, Justification and Sanctification go hand in hand together.

Justifié, justified, or cleared; justified, or received into the state of Grace; justified, or made even.

Justifier, to justify, or clear; to justify, or bring into a state of Grace; to make good; to justify, or make even.

Voilà qui le justifie, that very Thing clears him. Justifier quécun, to justify one, to clear him.

La Grace justifie les Pecheurs, Grace justifies Sinners.

J'ai bien justifié le Proverbe qui dit, &c. I made good the Proverb that says, &c.

Justifier les Pages (en Termes d'Imprimeur) rendre les Pages également hautes & larges, to justify the Pages, to make them even.

Words babil, gril, peril, Gentilhomme, fille, gentille.

2. After these Diphthongs ai, ei, and ui; as travail, reveil, quille. Except anguille.

3. After these Triphthongs eui, iei, oei, oui, uei; as feuille, vieille, œil, fouiller, cueillir.

In point of Spelling, whereas of old they used to write aulcun, auline, jaulge; taulpe, aulvent, soulfre, and a great many more Words with an l in the middle, though never so mute, the same is left out in the modern Orthography.

But there are those who write still quelque and quelcun, which I think may be as well written thus, quèque, quécun. For there is no more ground to retain the l in these two, than there is to keep it in aucun, which comes from the same Root. And as the l is generally expunged out of this, so I see no reason or colour why it should be still preserved, and yet mute in these its Kinred.

In many Words which ended with an l mute; the same is left out, as in cheveu; chevreu, filleu, epagneu, which formerly were spelt with an l final.

And, instead of fenouil, genouil, verrouil, you will find these Words by several late Authors written as they are pronounced, viz. fenou, genou, verrou.

The same Rule there is for cou, fou, licou, mou, sou, which formerly were spelt col, fol, licol, mol, fol.

Except 1. Col when we speak of the Jews, and call them in the Scriptural Language un Peuple de Col roide. For in this case Col is pronounced, as it is written, with the sound of an l.

2. Fol, which is still used with an l in Verses, before a Word that begins a Vowel, as you may see under the Word Fol.

Lastly, l mute before f, in the middle of a Word, is now turned into f. So hauffer, poulsier, faulseté are now spelt hauffer, poulsier, fauffeté.

K.

THis Letter is so little used now adays in the French Tongue, that it is in a manner expunged out of it. Therefore those Words, which formerly begun with a K, must be now looked for with a C; such as Kalendrier, Karabé, Karat, &c. which now are thus spelt, Calendrier, Carabé, Carat.

Only Kirielle is to be found under the Letter Q, thus written Quirielle.

The only Use which is left of this Letter is only in some foreign Names; as Kiovie, and others. And so I proceed to L.

L.

THis Consonant in French is of the feminine Gender, and is pronounced in French as in English. As, une l bien faite, an l well made.

The same at the end of a Word is commonly pronounced, though the next Word begin with a Consonant. Which is an Exception from a general Rule, concerning final Consonants.

As for example, Tel Maître tel Valet, like Master like Man.

But, as to these Words following, the l is ever mute; viz. in avril, barril, bresil, chenil, fusil, gentil, nombril, outil, cul, sourcil. To which add soul, glaycul, ils, and fils.

Neither is l in il heard before a Vowel, in case of an Interrogation. As, parle-t-il à moi? does he speak to me?

L after A, in many Words, has a peculiar Sound by Grammarians called Liquid, not unlike that of l in these two English Words, Collier, Scullion.

Which Sound is to be observed 1. in these

La, the feminine Gender of le, the; her; it.

As it signifies the, it is called an Article; and then 'tis used before Nouns of the feminine Gender. As, la Femme the Woman, la Riviere the River.

In the two last Senses it is clearly a Pronoun, used with a Verb, and always placed before it, except in the Imperative Mood.

As, je la voi, I see her. Je la baise, I kiss her.

Vous me parlez d'une Chose étrange, pour moi je ne la compren pas, you speak to me of a strange Thing, for my part I do not understand it.

Or thus. La voici, here she is, she is here.

Now la is one of those Particles which are liable to an Edition, before a Word that begins with a Vowel. For then the a is turned into an Apostroph, and the l is incorporated with the following Word. So you must say l'Ame, and not la Ame. Je l'aime, not je la aime.

Except before the Word onzième; for then we say la onzième, not l'onzième.

Layette, (f.) a Box.

Une grande, ou une petite Layette, a great, or a little Box.

Layetteur, (m.) a Box-maker.

Le, the; him, it.

In the first Sense it is called an Article, and in the last a Pronoun. But the truth is, in the first Sense 'tis but a Pronoun used as an Article, or (if you will) as a Particle going before Nouns. And indeed 'tis likely enough, that le comes curtailed from the Latine Ille, and la (its feminine Gender) from Illa. So that le is the Article that attends Nouns of the masculine Gender, in the Singular Number, and la those of the feminine. Both which make les in the Plural Number.

As, le Roi the King, la Reine the Queen, les Rois the Kings, les Reines the Queens.

In the second Sense, 'tis such a Pronoun as is used with a Verb, and ever placed before it, except in the Imperative Mood.

As, je le voi, I see him, I see it. Je le verrai, I shall see him, or I shall see it.

[Remarquez que him se dit des Personnes, & it des Choses.]

Or thus. As, le voici, here he is, or here it is.

Je le veux bien, I will.

Now le is one of those Particles which are liable to an Elision, before a Word that begins with a Vowel. For then the e is turned into an Apostroph, and the l is incorporated with the following Word. So you must say l'Esprit, not le Esprit; Je l'admire, not je le admire.

Except before the Word onzième, for then we say le onzième, not l'onzième.

Lé, (m) largeur d'Etoffe, ou de Toile, breadth, the breadth of any Cloth, or Stuff.

As, voila le lé de cette Toile, there's the breadth of this Cloth.

Ces Draps sont de trois lez, these Sheets have three breadths.

Avoir la Lnette abbatue, to have the palate of the Mouth down.

Lueur, (from Luire) brightness, light.
As, la lueur d'une Chandelle, the light of a Candle.

Lugubre, triste, qui marque de la tristesse, dolefull, moanfull, sad, or melancholy.

Une Chanson lugubre, a moanfull Song. Un Vers lugubre, a dolefull Verse.

† Une Chambre lugubre, a melancholy Room. Un Esprit lugubre, a melancholy Person.

† Lugubrement, dolefully, or moanfully. Say d'un air (or d'une manière) lugubre.

Lui, he; him, or her.
As, c'est lui, 'tis he. C'est lui même, 'tis he himself.

A cause de lui, pour l'amour de lui, because of him, for his sake. En lui, à lui, par lui, pour lui, in him, to him, by him, for him.

Je lui repondis que non, I answered him no, or I answered her no. Donnez le lui, give it him, or give it her.

Note, that in these two last Phrases lui is used in both Genders, that is instead of à lui and à elle, For donnez le lui (for example) signifies donnez le à lui, and donnez le à elle.

And this is the personal Pronoun, which makes leur in the Plural Number.

† Luite, or Luite } See { Lute.
† Luitier, or Luitier } { Luter.
† Luiteur, or Luiteur } { Luteur.

Luire, to shine.
As, le Soleil luit, the Sun shines. La Lune luit, the Moon shines.

Que votre Lumière luit devant les Hommes, afin qu'ils voient vos bonnes Oeuvres (Mat. 5. 16.) let your Light so shine before Men, that they may see your good Works. Or thus. Fai luire sur nous ta Misericorde, show thy Mercy upon us.

Votre feinte luit dans vos Yeux, your Eyes betray you.

Si vos beautés ne luifoient point au Monde, if your Beauty did not dazzle the World.

Luisant, shining; fine, Rev. 1. 15.

Une Étoile luisante, a shining Star.

Or thus. As, un Ver luisant, a Glow-worm, a Worm that shines in the dark.

Lumière, (f.) light, or brightness; a light, candle, or lamp; insight, or knowledge; the touch-hole of a Gun; a hole of a Wind-Instrument; a Light, or eminent Man.

Apportez ici de la Lumière, bring a Light hither. Le Soleil est la Lumière du Jour, the Sun is the Light of the Day.

Je n'ai aucune lumière particulière sur cette Affaire, I have no particular insight in that Affair. Je lui ai donné toutes les lumières que j'avois là dessus, I have assisted him with all the Knowledge I had of the Concern.

Cet Homme là est la Lumière de notre Siècle, that Man is the Light of our Age. Cicéron étoit la Lumière des Orateurs, Cicero was the Light of Orators.

Mettre en lumière, to bring to light. As 2 Tim. 1. 10. Jésus Christ a détruit la Mort, & amis en lumière la Vie & l'Immortalité par l'Evangile, Christ has abolished Death, and has brought Life and Immortality to light through the Gospel.

Or thus. As, mettre un Livre en lumière, le mettre au jour, to set forth a Book, to publish it, or to put it out.

Un Homme qui a de grandes lumières, un savant Homme, a Man that has a great light of Knowledge, a learned Man.

Vous avez trop de lumières pour ne pas entendre ces Choses, your Understanding is too much enlightened not to apprehend these Things.

Il a besoin de toutes les lumières pour trouver des fuites, what parts he has will but just serve his turn to help him with a good come off.

Les Lumières de Dieu decouvrent nos Defauts jusques dans les Replis de nos Ames, the most secret Reccesses of our Souls lie all open to Gods all-seeing Eye.

Il n'y a rien de si caché qu'il ne vienne en lumière (Luke 8. 17.) there is nothing so hid but will come abroad.

Les Lumières de ce Tableau sont bien placées, bien repandues, bien ménagées, the Lights of this Picture are very well ordered.

Lumignon, (m.) la partie de la meche, soit de Chandelle ou de Lampe, qui brûle & qui est allumée, the Wick (or Cotton) of a Candle, the match of a Lamp, but especially that part which is burning.

Or thus. As, Matt. 12. 20. Il n'éteindra point le Lumignon qui fume, the smoking Flax shall be not quenched.

Luminaire, (m.) Luminary, or Light.

As, le Soleil & la Lune sont les deux grands Luminaires, qui regnent l'un sur le Jour & l'autre sur la Nuit, the Sun and Moon are the two great Lights, the one whereof reigns over the Day, and the other over the Night.

On appelle aussi Luminaire (en Termes d'Eglise) les Torchés, Cierges, & Flambeaux qui servent à l'Enterrement d'une Personne, & qu'on met autour du Corps, ou de sa Representation, the Funeral Torchés.

† On lui a poché les Luminaires, cd. les Yeux, he had his Eyes put out.

Lumineux, luminous, bright, full of light.

As, un Corps lumineux, a bright Body, a Body full of light.

Plus la Lune est éloignée du Soleil, plus elle paroît lumineuse, the further off the Moon is from the Sun, the more luminous she appears.

Lunaire, Lunary, of (or belonging to) the Moon.

As, un Mois Lunaire, a Lunar Month. Une Année Lunaire, a Lunar Year.

Lunaire (a fem. Subst.) sorte d'Herbe, Lunary, or Moon-wort.

La Lunaire a les feuilles faites en forme de Croissant de Lune, & a la vertu d'arreter les Ordinaires des Femmes, the Moon-wort has leaves made like a Crescent, and is apt to stop Women's Flowers.

Il y a deux sortes de Lunaire, la grande qui est jaune, & la petite qui est bleuë, there are two sorts of Moon-wort, the great which is yellow, and the small which is blew.

Lunaison, (f.) l'Espace de Temps qui est depuis une nouvelle Lune jusqu'à l'autre, the Space of Time there is from one new Moon to another.

Lunatique, lunatick, mad, disturbed in his mind.

Cheval Lunatique, cd. qui est atteint ou frapé de la Lune, a moon-eyed Horse.

C'est un Cheval qui, selon le cours de la Lune, a une debilité de Veue, plus ou moins grande. En forte qu'au declin de la Lune les Yeux du Cheval sont chargez ou troubles, & à la nouvelle Lune ils s'éclaircissent, mais toujours en danger de perdre tout à fait la Veue.

Un Lunatique, (Subst.) a Lunatick, or mad Man.

Lundi, (m.) Munday, or Monday.

De Lundi en huit, Munday come senight.

Il y eut Lundi dernier huit Jours, last Monday was senight.

Lune, (f.) the Moon.

La Lune est la plus basse de toutes les Planètes, & est plus petite que la Terre, the Moon is the lowest of all the Planets, and is lesser than the Earth.

M

His Consonant in French is of the feminine Gender, and is pronounced in French as in English. As, une m bien faite, an m well made.
 Before a Vowel, it has the same Sound in French as in English. As, ma, me, mi, mo, mu.
 And so it has at the end of proper Names in em, such as Jerusalem, Mathusalem. To which add Item, hymne, calomnie.

But it is pronounced gently, and without joining the Lips, in all other Words ending in m; such as Nom, renom, fain, parfum.
 It has the same Pronunciation, where it is followed by another m, a b, or a p; as emmener, embrasser, tromper. To which add condamner, and its Derivatives.
 After the New Way of Spelling m is changed into n, in several Words. So we now write conte, donter, trionse, exent, solennel, instead of compte, dompter, triomphe, exempt, solennel. Which Way is also used for all their Derivatives.

MA

Ma, the feminine of mon (a Pronoun Possessive) my, mine.

 Maculé, Terme d'Imprimeur, spotted.
 As, Feuille maculée, a spotted sheet.
 Maculer, to spot.
 Madame, (f.) My Lady, Madam, Mistress.
 This Title is given by the French to Queens and Empresses, being spoken to. It is said also more properly, without any addition to it, of her Royal Highness, the King's Brother's Wife. The same is also given to the French King's Daughters.
 Prince's, Duke's, Lord's and Noblemen's Wives, the Wives of all eminent Men, either by their great Employ's or singular Merit, whether Court-men or Sword-men, have also a share to this Title.
 So the French say Madame la Princesse est morte, Madame la Duchesse, Madame la Baronne, Madame la Comtesse, Madame la Marquise de—, Madame la Presidente, Madame la Procureuse generale, Madame l'Avocate generale, Madame la Gouvernante, Madame la Marechale, Madame l'Intendante de, &c. But in this Case we leave the Title in English, as included in the Quality expressed.
 Moreover, such is the Genius of this flattering Age, that this Title is even prodigally and foolishly bestowed upon the Wives of rich Partisans, or Farmer's of the King's Revenues.
 Nay it is come so cheap as to be conferred upon the meaner sort of People, and then it answers to the word Mistress in English.
 Monsieur vaut bien Madame, (Prov.) He is as good as She.
 Mademoiselle, (f.) Mademoiselle. This is a Title, which, without any Addition to it, is properly said of the King's Brother's Daughter.
 As, Mademoiselle est une belle Princesse, Mademoiselle is a fine Princess.

Major, (m.) a Major.

C'est un Officier considerable, qui a autant de différentes Prerogatives attachées à sa Charge, qu'il y a de différentes fortes de Majors dans le Service. Car il y a Major General d'une Armée ; Major de chacune des Brigades de l'Armée, soit de Cavalerie soit d'Infanterie ; Major d'un Regiment de Cavalerie ; Major, ou Sergeant Major d'un Regiment d'Infanterie ; Major d'une Place de Guerre ; & Major des quatre Compagnies des Gardes du Corps.

Major General de l'Armée (the Major General of an Army) est un Officier qui con-certe & resout chaque jour, avec les autres Majors de l'Armée, les Troupes qui doivent monter les Gardes, celles qui doivent aller en Parti, composer les Detachemens, ou escorter les Convois.

Major de Brigade de l'Armée, soit de la Cavalerie, soit de l'Infanterie, est un Officier qui reçoit l'Ordre & le Mot du Major General, & qui le donne aux Majors de chaque Regiment.

Major d'un Regiment de Cavalerie (a Major of a Regiment of Horse) est ordinairement le premier Capitaine du Regiment.

Il commande le Regiment, en l'absence du Maître de Camp.

Major, ou Sergeant Major d'un Regiment d'Infanterie (a Major of a Regiment of Foot) est un Officier qui ne peut posséder d'autre Charge que celle là dans le Regiment, par une Ordonnance de 1670. Mais les Majors qui ont opté, & s'en sont demis, selon le Reglement du Roi, pour se conserver la Charge de Major, y tiennent rang de Capitaines, & commandent à tous les Capitaines qui ont été receus après eux. Un de ses Soins principaux est de former le Bataillon de son Regiment, & de lui faire faire l'Exercice, de le rallier, s'il plie dans un Combat, & d'en avoir soin pendant la Marche & le Campement. C'est le seul des Officiers du Corps qui est à cheval pendant un Combat, pour faire plus facilement le detail du Service.

Major d'une Place de Guerre (a Major of a strong Place) est le troisième Officier qui y commande, & qui tient rang après le Lieutenant de Roi. Il doit être intelligent dans les Fortifications, & son Soins s'étend en particulier sur la Garde, sur les Rondes, la Patrouille, & les Sentinelles.

Major des quatre Compagnies des Gardes du Corps est un Officier considerable, qui est receu Lieutenant dans les mêmes Compagnies, & qui a le droit d'Ancienneté sur les Lieutenans receus après lui.

Aide Major, est un Officier qui soulage le Major dans sa Fonction ; & qui même en fait le detail, quand le Major est absent.

Il y a beaucoup de Majors, qui ont chacun plusieurs Aides Majors. Les quatre Compagnies des Gardes du Corps n'ont qu'un Major, qui a deux Aides Majors. Chaque Place de Guerre n'a qu'un Major, qui a sous lui plus ou moins d'Aides Majors, selon que la Place est plus ou moins grande. Chaque Regiment de Cavalerie n'a qu'un Aide Major. Chaque Regiment d'Infanterie en a deux, à la reserve du Regiment des Gardes, qui en a quatre. Quand un Bataillon est sous les Armes, le Poste de l'Aide Major est sur l'Aile gauche, & à la gauche de tous les Capitaines, au dessous du Poste du Lieutenant Colonel.

N.

THIS Consonant in French is of the feminine Gender, and is pronounced in French as in English; as une petite n a little n, une grande n a great n.

Before a Vowel, it has the same Sound in French as in English; as na, ne, ni, no, nu.

And so it hath in these Words, when followed by a Vowel; viz. en, on, un, mon, ton, son, amen, examen, hymen, bien the Adverb. To which add rien, before autre; and these five, aucun, commun, bon, fin, divin, before Substantives.

Except en and on, the first being used with an Imperative Mood, and the other with an Interrogation. In which case the n is pronounced gently, and not altogether so hard as in English. As, ôtez en un peu, take some on away; que dit on à la Cour? what News at Court?

Which

Which is the general Sound of n before a Consonant, or at the end of a Sentence. As, confusion, consternation, que dit on? que fait on?

N is mute in this Termination ent of the third Person plural of some Tenses of Verbs; as ils parlent, ils parloient, ils parlerent, ils parleroient, ils parlaient. And so it is sometimes with comment, before a Word beginning with a Vowel; as comment appelez vous cela? how d'ye call that? where it is not heard.

The same may be said to be mute, I mean the first n, in prene, and its Compounds, where en is pronounced but like an e open.

According to the modern Orthography, we write vimmes, enemy, couvent, which formerly were spelt vinmes, ennemy, convent.

N E

Ne, not.

This is an Adverb of Denying, always joyned with a Verb, and this most commonly followed by pas, an additional Particle used to make the Negation fuller.

As, je ne veux pas, I will not. Je ne fais pas, I know not. Je ne puis pas, I cannot. And with an Interrogation, thus. Ne fais-tu pas? do not I know? Ne le vois-tu pas? don't I see it?

Sometimes you will find it with rien, or personne, after it.

As, Je n'en fais rien, I know nothing on't. N'avez-vous rien autre à me dire? have you nothing else to say to me?

N'y a-t-il personne ici? is no body here? Je ne vois personne, I see no body.

Or thus. Ne le croyez pas, don't (pour do not) believe him. Ne le faites pas, don't do it. Que ne parlez-vous, why don't you speak? Que ne vous levez-vous? why don't you rise?

Je ne vous aime, ni ne vous crain, I neither love, nor fear you.

Sometimes this Negative is not expressed in English.

As, je ne doute point qu'il ne vienne, I don't doubt but he will come. Je crain qu'il ne soit malade, I fear he is ill. J'apprehende qu'il ne s'engage en de mauvaises Compagnies, I am afraid he will be drawn into bad Company.

Il dit plus qu'il ne fait, he talks more than he doth. Il fait moins qu'il ne dit, he performs less than he talks. Il écrit mieux que vous ne pensez, he writes better than you imagine.

Il est pis qu'il n'étoit hier, he is worse than he was yesterday. Il est tout autre que vous ne dites, he is quite another man than you speak of. L'Affaire va autrement que vous ne pensez, the Business goes otherwise than you speak of.

Je ne veux que votre parole, I will have but your word. Il ne voit que d'un œil, he sees but of one eye.

Il ne fait que trotter par la Ville, he does nothing but gad up and down. Il ne fait que manger, boire, & dormir, he does nothing but eat, drink, and sleep.

You may observe, that this Particle is one of those whereof the Vowel is subject to an Elision, and turned into an Apostroph.

As, n'en dites rien, say nothing of it. N'étoit le respect que je porte à la Compagnie, je vous couvrirois la joue, were it not for the respect I bear to the Company, I would give you a box on the ear.

Je ne l'aurois pas fait, n'eût été à votre considération, I had not done it, but upon your account.

Lastly, 'tis to be observed, that sometimes this Particle is suppressed in French.

As, savez-vous pas (for ne savez-vous pas) qu'il est mort? don't you know that he is dead? Avez-vous (for n'avez-vous) rien de nouveau? have you no news? Etes-vous (for n'êtes-vous) point l'Homme que je cherche? are you not the Man I look for? A-t-il (for n'a-t-il) pas fait? has not he done?

Sometimes you will find this negative Particle repeated in one and the same Sentence, contrary to the genius of the English Tongue.

As, je ne nie pas que je ne l'aie fait, I do not disown my doing of it.

Une Fleur odoriferante, a sweet (or a sweet-smelling) Flower.

Une Gomme odoriferante, a sweet Gum.

O E

This Diphthong is pronounced in French as in English, that is like a single e; as oeconomie economy, oeumenique ecumenical.

But it is no Diphthong, and therefore the Vowels must be distinctly pronounced, in Noël, boîte, poëme, troëne.

The Triphthong œi, with an i after it, sounds euil; as œil, œillade, œillet.

œu is also pronounced like the French Diphthong eu, the o being mute; as œu, cœur, œuf.

In point of Spelling, we write indifferently oeconomie and economie, oeconomique and economique.

There are those also who write ecumenique for œcumenique, but this last Way is still the most in use.

Oeconomie } See { Economie.
Oeconomique } Economique.

Oecumenique, cd. general, universel, œcumenical, general.

As, un Concile Oecumenique, an œcumenical, or General Council.

O N

On. This is a noted Particle, used in French with Verbs Impersonal, or Impersonally used. Wherein the French Tongue has a singular Advantage upon the English; which (as copious as it is) is put to hard Shifts, for want of such a Particle. Witness these following Phrases, where On is Englished several ways.

As, on croit qu'il est mort, 'tis thought that he is dead. On le dit, they say so, 'tis reported so. On me l'a dit, I was told so. On m'en a averti, I had notice of it given me.

Avant qu'on s'en aille coucher, before one goes to bed. On peut le faire, si l'on veut, one may (a man may) do it, if he please.

On y rit, on y danse, on s'y divertit, there's laughing, dancing, and sporting.

On aime mieux se damner, que se priver des Choses illicites, men had rather damn themselves, than to be deprived of unlawfull Pleasures. On avoit coutume d'admirer ces Choses, Men were wont to admire those Things.

On est allé au devant de lui, some people are gone to meet him. On l'aime fort, he is much beloved.

Que dira-t-on? what will the World say? As for the t which comes in here before on, see the Letter T, where you will find the Reason of it.

On songera à vos Interets, your Concerns will be taken care of. On aura soin de vous, care shall be taken of you.

Note that, instead of On, the French do sometimes say l'on; especially after the Conjunction &c, and Nouns ending in on.

As, il s'en alla, & l'on s'aperceut alors de sa Colere, he went away, and then appeared his Indignation.

De cette façon l'on entend ce que vous voulez dire, in this wise a man understands what you mean.

So, betwixt que and a following Word beginning with c or q, l'on is most proper.

As, que l'on crie, que l'on querelle, let them clamour, let them quarrel.

† Onc. This is an obsolete Adverb of Time, used of old with a Negative, before or after it.

As, Onc il ne flata personne, he never flattered nobody.

Orchestre, (f.) Terme de Comedie, the Musick-Room.

This Word comes originally from the Greek Word ὀρχήστρα, and this from ὀρχήσθαι to dance, because 'twas in the Orchestra, being the Stage (or middle) of the Theater, whereon the Chorus danced. Whereas, among the Romans, Orchestra was the Space between the Stage and the common Seats, wherein Senators and noble Personages sat to see Play's acted, such as are now our Boxes by the Stage. But Orchestre in French do's signify now adays the Musick-room.

Presentement (say's Mr. Richelet) on appelle Orchestre parmi nous le Lieu où l'on enferme la Symphonie & tous les Joueurs d'Instrumens de Musique, qui jouent entre les Actes des Pieces dramatiques, & les Entrées des Balets.

O S

Os (m.) a bone.

Les Os sont la partie du Corps la plus dure, la plus seche, & la plus terreste, qui sert à affermir & à soutenir les Parties du Corps, the Bones are the hardest, the driest, and most terrestrial part of the Body, serving to strengthen and bear up the several Parts of the Body.

Les Os ayant été faits pour soutenir le Corps ont des Jointures admirables qui servent à le rendre ferme, & à terminer agreablement les Membres, & enfin au Mouvement & à l'Action du Corps, the Bones being made to bear up the Body have admirable Joints, which serve to strengthen it, to give a due form to the Limbs, and lastly to the Motion and Action of the Body.

Os coronal, cd. l'Os du Front, the Forehead bone. Os sacrum, Os grand & large qui est au bas de l'Epine du Dos, the great Bone whereupon the Ridge-bone resteth.

Les Os lui percent la peau, cd. il est fort maigre, one may see his Bones through his Skin, he is so spare.

Mes Os tiennent à ma Peau à force de gemir, my Bones stick to my Flesh with groaning.

Casser les Os à quécun, to break ones Bones.

Le Bourreau lui a cassé les Os, the Hangman has broke his Bones, he was broken upon the Wheel.

† Il ne fera pas vieux Os, cd. il ne vivra pas long tems, he won't live long.

Osé, cd. hardi, temeraire, bold, audacious.

As, seriez vous bien si osé que de le faire? would you be so bold as to do it? See Oser.

Oseille. See Ozeille.

Oser, to dare.

As, je n'ose pas, I dare not.

Auroit il bien osé le faire? durst he have done it?

One Thing is observable concerning this Verb, That being used with a Negative, before another Verb in the Infinitive Mood, the best Way is to leave out the two enforcing Particles pas and point.

As, ils n'osoient sortir (better than ils n'osoient pas, or ils n'osoient point sortir) de leurs Tentés, they durst not come out of their Tents.

Je n'ose murmurer contre sa Tyrannie, I dare not grumble against his Tyranny.

Vous n'osiez le nier, you durst not deny it.

O U

† Ou is founded as it is in some English Words, such as could, would, should; as coudre, cou-

fu, moudre, moulu.

And note, that this is the Diphthong commonly used for the English u; as in these Words Edouard, Ouest, for Edward, West.

Ou, (a Conj.) or, either, or else.

Ami ou Enemi, Friend or Foe. Plus ou moins, more or less.

Ou la douceur ou la force le fera, ou le feront, either fair means or foul means shall do it. Ou il est honnête homme, ou il ne l'est pas, either he is an honest man, or not.

Ou la Honte, ou l'Occasion, ou le bon Exemple leur donneront (better than leur donnera) un meilleur Avis, either Shame, or

S f Oppor-

Opportunity, or else a good Example will give 'em a better Advice.

Où, (an Adverb of Place) where, whither. Où êtes vous? where are ye? Où vous trouverai je? where shall I find you? Où est l'Homme qui pût souffrir ces Choses? where is the Man that can suffer these Things? Où allez vous? whither d'ye go? Où irai je? whither shall I go?

Ici où, là où, where. Ici où je suis, where I am. Là où tu es, where thou art.

Or thus. L'un dort toujours, là où l'autre ne fait que courir, the one is always asleep, whilst the other does nothing but run.

Par là où, where. Commencez par là où il a fini, begin where he has ended.

Où is also elegantly used for the Pronoun Relative lequel, laquelle, and its Plural lesquels, lesquelles.

As, la Prison où il fut mis, cd. dans laquelle il fut mis, the Prison wherein he was cast. La Nécessité où il étoit réduit, the Necessity he was reduced to.

Or thus. Où en sont (cd. en quel état sont) vos Affaires? how do your Affairs stand?

Où pensez tu que j'en sois, lors que j'appren des Nouvelles de cette nature? how do you think I stand affected, when I hear News of this nature?

D'où, from whence. D'où venez vous? from whence come you? D'où je conclus, from whence I conclude.

Or thus. D'où êtes vous? what Countryman are you?

D'où savez vous cela? how d'ye know that? Par tout où, wherever.

Par tout où il a passé, wherever he went.

Ouille, (f.) Sheep. Prendre soin de ses Ouilles, to take care of his Sheep.

Remarquez que ce Mot est toujours figuré, & veut dire les Personnes qui sont commises à la garde de quelque Evêque, Ministre, Curé, &c.

Une Veste fourrée d'ouate, a Vest lined with Wad.

Oubli, (m.) forgetfulness, oblivion. † Mettre en oubli, to forget. Mis en oubli, forgot, or forgotten, buried in oblivion.

† Oubliance, as Oubli. As, Ps. 88. 12. Conoitra-t-on ta Justice au Pais d'Oubliance? shall thy Righteousness be known in the Land of Forgetfulness?

Oublie, (f.) a Wafer, or Wafer-cake. Les Oublies se font avec de la farine, de l'eau, du sucre, & des œufs, Wafers are made with flower, water, sugar, and eggs.

De bonnes Oublies, good Wafers.

Oublié, (from Oublier) forgot, or forgotten, out of ones mind, out of ones memory.

Oublié, ou omis, (en Termes d'Imprimeur) out.

Oublier, to forget. As, ne m'oubliez pas, don't forget me. N'oubliez pas les bons offices que je vous ai rendus, forget not the good offices I have done ye.

J'ai oublié son Nom, I forgot his Name. J'ai oublié de vous dire, I forgot to tell you.

Je n'oublie jamais de prier le Ciel pour vous, I never forget to pray Heavens for you.

Or thus. Il n'a rien oublié, (cd. il a employé toutes choses) pour l'y persuader, he has omitted nothing (that is, he has used all means) to persuade him to it.

S'oublier, to forget himself; to be forgotten. Ha! que fais je là? je m'oublie, what do I do? I forget my self. Vous vous oubliez, mon Ami, you forget your self, my Friend.

Platon s'oubloit bien quelquefois soi même, Plato sometimes used to forget himself.

Le Méchant s'oublie dans la Prosperité, the Wicked forgets himself in his Prosperity.

Les Gens de basse Condition s'oublient d'ordinaire dans une Fortune élevée, Men of mean Extraction are apt to forget themselves when raised up to an high Fortune.

Ces Choses là s'oublient facilement, those Things are easily forgotten.

Or thus. L'Esprit dans ce Néctar heureusement s'oublie, the Soul is happily transported in that Nectar.

Si je t'oublie, Jerusalem, que ma Dextre s'oublie elle même, (Ps. 147. 5.) if I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning.

Oubliette, (f.) Prison perpétuelle, où l'on condamnoit autrefois certains Criminels en France, a Dungeon, or close Room under ground, whereto certain Malefactors were confined for their Life-time.

Oublieux, (from Oubli) forgetful, unmindful, apt to forget, as Jam. 1. 25.

Ouest, (m.) l'Endroit opposé à l'Est, le Couchant, West. Un Vent d'Ouest, a West (Western, or Westerly) Wind.

Ouf, (forte d'Interjection, qui exprime quelque Sentiment de Douleur) ho! an Interjection of Grief.

Oui, (Adverbe affirmatif) yes. Répondez oui, ou non, answer yes, or no. Tantôt il dit oui, tantôt non, sometimes he says yes, sometimes no.

Il répondit qu'oui, he answered yes. Oui vraiment, yes truly, yes indeed. Oui assurément, yes sure, yes certainly.

Oui da, yes forsooth. Oui bien, s'il fût venu, I grant it, (well and good) if he had come.

Or thus. As, on lui dit que oui, he was told so. Je croi que oui, I believe so.

Oui is also sometimes used Substantively. As, il ne faut qu'un Oui pour rendre un Homme heureux, one Yes may make a Man happy.

Oui, (a Part. of the Verb Ouir) heard. Je n'ai pu être oui du Roi, quelque instance que j'aie faite, I could not be heard of the King, whatever instance I made for it.

Ouïe, (a fem. Subst.) Hearing, one of the five Senses; gill, a gill of a Fish; a sound-hole. Avoir l'Ouïe excellente, to have his Hearing very good. Avoir l'Ouïe un peu dure, to be somewhat dull of hearing.

On s'instruit plus par la Veüe que par l'Ouïe, cd. les Exemples frappent plus nos Sens que les Sons, our Minds are more affected by the Sight than by the Hearing.

Il y a des Poissons dont les Ouïes sont couvertes, & d'autres dont les Ouïes sont découvertes, there are Fishes whose Gills are hid, others whose Gills are open.

L'Ouïe d'un Instrument de musique, the Sound-hole of a Musical Instrument.

Ouir, cd. entendre des Oreilles, to hear. Ouir une Voix, to hear a Voice. Je l'ai oui de mes Oreilles, I heard it with my own ears.

Ce n'étoit que Gémissement qu'on oyait de tous côtes, nothing but Groaning was to be heard of all sides.

Je vous oirai une autre fois, I shall hear you another time.

Ouir dire, to hear say. J'ai souvent oui dire cela à mon Pere, I often heard my Father say so.

D'où savez vous cela? Je l'ai oui dire, how do you know that? I heard people say so.

Vous croyez tout ce que vous oyez dire, you believe whatever you hear say.

Je ne le sai que par ouïr dire, I know it only by hear say.

Ouir les Temoins, to hear the Witnesses. Or thus. Je n'ai rien oui dire de tout cela, I heard not a word of that.

Ayant oui dire, que Jesus venoit à Jerusalem, (John 12. 12.) when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem.

Qu'est ce que j'ois dire de toi? (Luke 16. 2.) how is it that I hear this of thee?

J'avois oui dire, que c'étoit un habile homme, I was told, that he was an able man.

Et quand le Centenier ouït parler de Jesus, (Luke 7. 3.) and when the Centurion heard of Jesus.

Lastly, you will find this Verb used Substantively, as Rom. 10. 17. la Foi donc est par l'ouïr, & l'ouïr par la Parole de Dieu, so then Faith comes by Hearing, and Hearing by the Word of God.

Outrage, (m.) an abuse, affront, offence, outrage, wrong, or injury.

Un fâcheux, sanglant, ou cruel Outrage, a grievous affront, or outrage.

Se venger des Outrages qu'on a reçus, to be revenged of the Injuries received.

Or thus. As, Luke 6. 22. Vous serez bien heureux quand les Hommes vous diront des Outrages, blessed are ye, when they shall reproach you.

Quand on lui disoit des Outrages, il n'en rendoit point, (1 Pet. 2. 23.) when he was reviled, he reviled not again. Ne rendans point Outrage pour Outrage, (1 Pet. 3. 9.) not rendering railing for railing.

Outragé, abusé, affronté, revêlé, offensé, wronged, injured.

Outrageant, as Outrageux.

Outrager, to abuse, affront, revile, offend, wrong, injure, to do wrong, Ps. 105. 14.

Ce Discours là m'outrage, that Discourse offends me, I am wronged by that Discourse.

Or thus. As Heb. 10. 29. celui qui aura outragé l'Esprit de Grace, he that hath done despite unto the Spirit of Grace.
 Outrager, Luke 22. 65, to speak blasphemously against; to rail on, Luke 23. 39.

P.

This Consonant is pronounced pé in French, and is used in the masculine Gender. As, faire un p, to make a p. Un p mal fait, a p ill made.

It is never heard in these Words, coup, loup, camp, champ, galop, Sirop, corps, pfeume, pfeautier, sept, septième, temps, prompt, exempt, compte, nor the Derivatives of the three last.

ph is pronounced, as in English, like an f; as phrase, Philosophe, Prophete, physique.

According to the modern Orthography, this Letter has been expunged from many Words wherein it stood mute.

And 1. before v; as in avril, neveu, recevoir, in old time used to be spelt avril, nepveu, recepvor.

2. In these Words, niece, noce, setier, semaine, recette, batême, batifer, achat, acheter, donter; which formerly were spelt with a p, thus, niepce, nopce, septier, sepmaine, recepte, baptême, baptiser, ackapt, achepter, dompter.

3. 'Tis common now to write pront, exent, tems, passetems, printems, instead of prompt, exempt, temps, passetemps, printemps.

As for Triomphe, prophane, orthographe, and some others, 'tis usual now adays to turn the ph into f, and to write 'em thus, profane, trionfe, ortografe, &c.

Pipeau,

Pipeau, ou chalumeau, (m.) a pipe, an oaten-pipe; a bird-call.

Pipée, (f.) sorte de Chasse aux Oiseaux, a kind of Fowling, thus described by Mr. Richalet.

La Pipée est une Chasse aux Oiseaux, qui durant la Vendange se fait dans des Bois taillis de 5. ou 6. ans de coupe, des la pointe du Jour, ou demi heure avant le coucher du Soleil. On coupe le jeune bois des branches d'un Arbre, on fait des entailles sur les branches, pour mettre des gluaux. En suite, 30. ou 40. pas autour de cet Arbre, on coupe le Bois taillis. On fait une Loge sous l'Arbre où sont tendus les Gluaux, on s'y cache, & l'on y contrefait le cri de la femelle du Hibou. Ce qui se fait avec une certaine Herbe, qu'on tient entre les deux pouces, & qu'on applique entre les deux levres, en poussant son Vent, & en les pressant l'une contre l'autre. Les Oiseaux, qui entendent ce Cri contrefait, s'assemblent autour de l'Arbre où l'on est caché, & se viennent le plus souvent percher sur l'Arbre où sont tendus les Gluaux. Ainsi ils s'engluent les Ailes, ils tombent à terre, & on les prend.

But Cotgrave makes a Description of Pipée, something different from that. A Fowler, says he, hid in a thick Bush or Tree, stuck full of Lime-twigs, and having an Owl fast perched near to him, cries like a Bird, and pinching a live one makes her cry. Which others hearing, fly thither, to rescue her from the Owl, and become intangled.

Piper, to counterfeit the noise of an Owl in order to catch Birds.

Or thus. As, †piper (ed. tromper) une personne au Jeu, to cheat one, in Playing. Dieu nous garde de gens qui pipent, God keep us all from Cheats.

†Piper les Dez, ed. les falsifier, to cog the Dice.

†Piper, pour dire exceller, to excel. Il recitoit une Epigramme, où il pensoit avoir pipé, he cited an Epigram, wherein he thought to have excelled.

Tout le jour ils tordent mes Propos, (Ps. 56. 5.) every day they wrest my Words.
 Parler à propos, to speak to the purpose. Il ne se peut rien dire de plus à propos, nothing can be said more to the purpose.
 A quel propos? to what purpose? why, Luke 13. 7.
 Mais à quel propos tout cela? but to what purpose all that?
 Or thus. A tout propos, cd. à tout moment, ever, ever and anon, every turn, upon every occasion.
 Il parle de sa bravoure à tout propos, & il ne voit pas qu'on se moque de lui, he ever speaks of his bravery, and do's not perceive how people laugh at him.
 A tout propos il fait le Bigot, he plays the Bigot every turn.
 A propos, comment se porte un tel? now I think on't, how do's such a one?
 A propos de ce que vous dites, je me souviens d'une chose, your telling of that puts me in mind of a thing.
 Je le rencontrai bien à propos, ou tout à propos, I met him very opportunely, or seasonably.
 Il ne jugea pas à propos de rien entreprendre, he thought it not convenient to undertake any thing.

Q is used in French in the masculine Gender. As, un q mal fait, an ill shaped q.

In conjunction with other Letters it has the same Sound in French as in English, viz. like a k.

And such is the Nature of it, that it is scarce to be found but with a Vowel after it, those two Letters together making the Sound of an English k, as in the English Word Exchequer. For example, quand, quel, qui, quoi.

Formerly they used it in French at the end of some Words, such as Coq, Choq, &c. But now the q is commonly turned into c, as coc, choc. Except in the Word Cinq.
